

In regards to the Indiana Telephone Privacy Law I feel that the FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. Since this law has taken effect I receive only 2-3 calls a month, which is how many I would receive in one night several times a week. I can't describe how nice it is to be able to eat a complete meal without the phone ringing.

Also, since I'm the one who pays for my own phone and service. I should be able to control who calls me. Having telemarketers, who are complete strangers to me, is no different than having a prank or obscene call. It's someone calling me who I do not want calling me. I feel this is my choice and not one that the FCC should control. Thank You, Michael Hein
